OPERATING GUIDELINES

Sportsman Series Rules are established to provide safe, competitive, affordable off-road racing events.

Sportsman Series conducts off-road races as professionally officiated events, strictly following the Rules set forth by the Series. Rule changes and/or clarification(s), including administration procedure, are not subject to challenges by participants or other members. A joint effort of the owners, drivers, promoters, race organizers, members, sponsors, and Sportsman Series personnel provides for the continuous improvement and interpretation of the Series Rules, operations and implementation. These Rules may be amended/clarified from time to time at Sportsman Series' discretion. Rule changes will only to be implemented to enhance and/or improve competition that furthers the Sportsman Series' goals for driver, promoter, sponsor, spectator and audiences to insure the following:

- Safety on and off the track
- Growth and prosperity of the sport
- Professionally managed and conducted events
- Long-term continuity
- Respect for participants, sponsors, team owners, spectators
- Integrity
- Credibility

It is the total responsibility of each participating competitor to insure that their team actions and their equipment are in full compliance with all relevant Sportsman Series Rules. The publication and compliance with Sportsman Series Rules does not guarantee, warrant or imply safety to Sportsman Series members, their teams or any party reading, reviewing or using this publication. Acceptance and application of Sportsman Series Rules are in no way a guarantee against injury or death to any participant, spectator, competitor, sponsor or others. Racing is dangerous. Sportsman Series members and racers compete at their own risk.
